

Leave Policy

Privilege Leave

Every employee is entitled to Twelve, (12) working days' of Privilege Leave per annum. Any employee may only take such annual leave as has accrued in your favor up until, the time of taking such leave. You will accrue one (1) leave for every completed month of your employment.

During the period of probation you are not entitled to take any Privilege Leave. All leaves during probation period are considered unpaid leave and payment for which will be deducted from the salary of the same month.

Unpaid Leaves

You are entitled to 12 working days' paid leave per annum. After which if you are on leave for any number of days, all those days off would be considered as UNPAID leave and salary would be deducted for those many days in the same month. This deduction would be [your CTC for the month divided by number of days in the month] times [number of days of UNPAID leave].

Sickness Leave

In the event that you are too ill to attend work you are entitled to avail paid sick leave of up to 4 days per year.

During the period of probation you are not entitled to take any Sickness Leave. All leaves during probation period are considered unpaid leave and payment for which will be deducted from the salary of the same month.

Sick leaves are not carried forward.

To avail sick leave you need to take at least 2 leaves in consecutive days and produce the certificate of illness via email or in person before your next upcoming salary date. You can take such leaves 2 times a year.

National Holidays

You are entitled to 10 days' of National/state holiday per annum. List of holidays will be available separately on the intranet for the particular year.

Eligibility

1. Privilege Leave: Every employee will be eligible for 12 days paid privilege leaves in calendar year on accrual basis excluding weekly offs & scheduled holidays.
2. During the period of probation you are not entitled to take any Privilege Leave. All leaves during probation period are considered unpaid leave and payment for which will be deducted from the salary of the same month.

3. Employee may avail the leave only after obtaining prior approval of his/her manager and informing the HR department. Employee availing leave without any intimation to the manager or HR may be marked as leave without pay i.e. no compensation may be paid for the days employee was not present. For planned leave process refer to the Planned Leave section below.
4. Any leave taken in excess of eligible leave will be considered as leave without pay (i.e. no compensation will be paid to the employee for the days the employee was not present), even if the leave is approved.
5. Any continuous leave of one week or more over and above eligible leave has to be approved in writing by CEO / CTO, subject to any additional terms discussed during the approval process. Employee might also need to meet the CEO/CTO in person if they feel the need to.
6. Employees who are on continuous leave of more than 1 week over and above eligible leave without intimation are liable to be terminated.
7. After submission of resignation employee will not be eligible to take any leave during the notice period as this being the period of completing work / matters on hand as well as for handing over. In case employee takes leave during the notice period, it would be considered as his/her last working day in the organization. All leaves during notice period are unpaid leaves.

Accumulation of Leave

Unavailed leave up to 31st December will be carried forward to the next year, subject to a maximum leave accumulation of 5 days.

For example, if your unavailed leave balance as of Dec 31, 2018 is 10, your balance as of Jan 1, 2019 will be 5.

Maternity Leave

Female employee will be eligible for Maternity Leave of 26 weeks inclusive of Weekly offs, holidays and existing accumulated leave balance. Any leave beyond that will be considered as leave-without-pay.

During the period of probation you are not entitled to take any Maternity Leave. All leaves during probation period are considered unpaid leave and payment for which will be deducted from the salary of the same month.

Paternity Leave

Male employees who are soon to become fathers can avail upto 3 days of leave within 6 months of their wife's date of delivery. Employees, who doesn't continue with the organisation at least one year after taking paternity leave are liable to repay back any paternity leave. Any such leave will be adjusted during final settlement process.

During the period of probation you are not entitled to take any Paternity Leave. All leaves during probation period are considered unpaid leave and payment for which will be deducted from the salary of the same month.

Encashment of Leave

Encashment of leave can be done only at the time of cessation of employment.

During the continuance of employment encashment of leave is not allowed. Encashment of leave will be calculated on the basis of basic salary at the time of encashment. Sick leaves cannot be encashed.

During the period of probation you are not entitled to take any Privilege Leave. All leaves during probation period are considered unpaid leave and payment for which will be deducted from the salary of the same month.

Planned Leave

Employee may avail planned leave only after obtaining prior approval of his/her manager and informing the HR department. Employee availing leave without any intimation to the manager or HR may be marked as leave without pay i.e. no salary may be paid for the days employee was not present. All leaves need to be taken by applying using the Leave Management Portal

If you are working at any of our client locations, you need to first take approval from your reporting manager via email and not verbally. On getting the leave approved apply for leave using the leave portal. Please note you need to add the below line in the "Reason" field while applying for leave "Approved by the Line Manager"

NOTE:

Leave should not be applied on WhatsApp or any other communication channel other than the Leave approval should not be conveyed to anyone else other than your line manager

Unplanned Leave

Unplanned absence of employees breaks the continuity of the work. It could dissatisfy the customer also. The objective of this leave is to enable an employee to attend some urgent or unforeseen contingencies.

- It is mandatory to call your line manager or HR for informing the urgency of unplanned leave

- On failure to contact your line manager or HR your unplanned leave will be considered as unpaid leave.

Where a member of staff is unable to attend work due to unforeseen circumstances, the member of staff is required to contact on phone his / her line manager and team members on the first day of absence before or as close to his / her start time as possible.

All members of staff are expected to maintain contact with their line manager and team members during any period of absence, at an appropriate frequency agreed with their manager, to update their line manager on their expected return to work date.

Employees are eligible for only 1-day Unplanned leave. But in case, the maximum unit of availing Unplanned Leave would be 2 days at a stretch. This leave must be taken only in dire case or Urgency.

Unplanned leaves, taken pre or post of any immediate holiday will be included in unpaid leaves (Saturday , Sunday / other holiday). E.g. Leaves taken on Friday/ Monday will be considered as leave for 3 / days respectively.

Procedure: Employees should apply using the Leave portal.

Sandwich Leave

If leaves taken for multiple days where weekly holidays or national holidays are sandwiched in between those leaves, then those weekly holidays or National holidays will be considered as leaves and payment will be deducted for the same.

Example: If an employee takes leave on 5th Jan. and 8th Jan AND 6th Jan and 7th Jan are weekly holidays, then in this case the leaves taken by employee will be considered for 4 days as the weekly holidays of 6th and 7th are sandwiched between the leaves taken on 5th Jan and 8th Jan.